

Congratulations ...

WEST VIRGINIA INSURANCE COMMISSIONER BECOMES PRESIDENT OF NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF INSURANCE COMMISSIONERS

Jane Cline has recently assumed a position of honor to the State of West Virginia. Commissioner Cline has become President of the National Association of Insurance Commissioners during the NAIC Winter National Meeting in San Francisco. This is an honor not only for Commissioner Cline but also the State of West Virginia. Commissioner Cline came into office during a very trying time, specially relative to medical professional liability insurance, and worked diligently to provide the necessary documentation and verification information that assisted our legislature to create and pass medical professional liability tort reform in 2001 and 2003. She has worked tirelessly since to regulate this aspect of the insurance industry including the formation, licensure and conduct of the West Virginia Mutual Insurance Company. She has also been readily available to the WVSMA and WVMIA during her time in office and has always been willing to participate in our client meetings. We appreciate her services to the medical community.

Commissioner Cline has served our State well and we extend to her our congratulations and best wishes in her year as President of the NAIC.

Pictured above at the Agency's client meeting at the WVSMA 2007 Healthcare Summit: David Rader, President, West Virginia Mutual Insurance Co., Jane Cline, Commissioner, West Virginia Insurance Commission, Steve Roberts, President, West Virginia Chamber of Commerce and Steve Brown, Agency Manager, West Virginia Medical Insurance Agency.